

These graphs indicate a fee for continuous service consisting of schematic design, design development, contract documentation, tendering and negotiating and contract administration.

They allow for adequate expenditure on professional development, marketing, salaries at commercial rates and investment in new technologies.

They allow for a commercial rate of profit.

